FIRE

Arsonists torch tonnes of straw

WELL ALIGHT: Dramatic pictures of the straw fire in Withersfield

SAMAR MAGUIRE

@SamarMaguireCN

HUNDREDS of tonnes of straw were set on fire at a farm just outside Cambridgeshire last week.

The blaze, which is being treated as arson, was on land just off Rose Hill, Withersfield, at around 6.15pm last Tuesday (September 19).

Suffolk Fire and Rescue service said that crews from Clare, Wickhambrook and Haverhill attended the fire, where it is believed up to 500 tonnes of straw were set alight.

No one was hurt during the fire and it is not thought to have spread.

Police, however, are looking for more information about how the fire started.

A post on Facebook claimed that there were around seven individuals were seen moments before the fire happened.

The post said: "A group of around seven young lads on push bikes (approx age 12-14 years old) were seen by a few dog walkers in this area between 6pm and 6.15pm today (Tuesday September 19, 2017).

"The fire was reported at 6.20pm, meaning these lads could have witnessed who started the fire.

"These lads were seen heading up to the hay bales on push bikes and were witnessed by a few people during these time frames.

"If anyone has information please inform the police."

A Suffolk Police spokesman said: "We were called at 6.45pm on Tuesday to reports of a hay stack on fire off Rose Hill in Withersfield.

"A straw stack reported as 500 tonnes of straw was set alight. The incident has been treated as arson.

"Any witnesses should contact Haverhill Police on 101 CAD 386 September 19."

HEALTH

TRAGEDY: Michael Chudley (right) with brother-in-law Paul Webb

Grieving family to help others

RELATIVES of a man who died weeks before his sister was due to give him her kidney in a potentially life-saving transplant have started an annual fundraising event in his memory.

Born with only one partly functioning kidney and his bladder on the outside of his body, 32-year-old Michael Chudley underwent dozens of gruelling operations throughout his life, including an eight-hour procedure when he was just one day old.

But just as it seemed his health problems were about to improve, with his sister set to donate her kidney to him, Michael died.

"The whole family knew he had health issues but it was the fact we thought he was going to have the transplant and get back to a normal life," said Paul Webb, Michael's brother-in-law, who lives in Wickhambrook, near Haverhill.

"He was going out on walks and getting his fitness back, saying what he was going to do."

"He was so close to having it done."

In the last 18 months of his life, Michael was making up to three trips a week to West

TOMMY LUMBY
@TommyLumbyCN

Suffolk Hospital to receive dialysis due to the decreasing function of his kidney.

It soon became clear he would need a kidney transplant if he were to survive.

"Two of his sisters, including my wife Lorraine, had all the tests to be an organ donor for him," said Paul, 45.

Sister Trudi McClean was tested first but found to not be a suitable match.

"This was devastating for her but Lorraine was then assessed to see if she was a match and was found to be a suitable donor," he added.

But the week before Lorraine was due to discuss the operation with doctors, Michael deteriorated and was taken into intensive care.

Michael died on September 13, 2016, and his funeral was held on September 30, which would have been his 33rd birthday.

His family has now decided to honour his memory, and hold an annual charity race to raise money for Addenbrooke's Kidney Patients Association (AKPA), which works to improve the lives of kidney patients at Addenbrooke's and its satellite dialysis units, including West Suffolk Hospital.

"We wanted to help others who use the unit," said Paul.

"The money raised goes to special equipment and special nurse training but also for patients there who may struggle to get to the unit."

The first event was held at Moreton Hall in Bury St Edmunds, which was Michael's hometown.

The night raised £1,600 and Paul and Lorraine presented a cheque to Peter Constable, chairman of AKPA at the Cambridge Dialysis Unit on September 13, the first anniversary of Michael's passing.

"We're overwhelmed by all the support we got," said Paul.

"It's nice to arrange something annually that's positive."

"He would have wanted something good to come out of something so tragic."

The family has now set up a Just Giving page to continue raising funds for the cause until the next race night on Saturday, September 25, 2018 at justgiving.com/RememberingMichaelChudley2018.

Foodbank busy preparing for Universal Credit introduction

RACHAEL McMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

A FOODBANK is appealing for help to stockpile food in anticipation of an increased need when universal credit is rolled out in the town.

The change to benefits will see people move from means-tested benefits on to one all inclusive payment from the start date after a change in circumstance or if they are a first time claimant.

Haverhill is one of the towns that will have become a fully Universal Credit area in October and Reach, the Haverhill foodbank is preparing for the worst.

Henry Wilson, Reach Community Projects director said: "It's the vulnerable that are going to be worst affected. We're trying to stockpile, we've been seeing month-on-month way more food going out than coming in."

"With full service coming into play in the Haverhill area in October, many people might have to wait weeks for money. Potentially, people could have to wait six weeks before getting any money if there's a change in circumstances."

PLEAS FOR DONATIONS: Reach Community Projects in Haverhill launches a YouTube channel
Screenshot of Henry Wilson

The change in circumstance that would prompt an immediate move to Universal Credit can be as simple as someone moving out, changing your name or address, or even losing your job.

Universal Credit will be given out as one monthly payment replacing six means-tested benefits that had previously been paid weekly or fortnightly.

Universal Credit will replace the following benefits:

- Child Tax Credit
- Housing Benefit
- Income Support
- Income-based Jobseeker's Allowance (JSA)
- Income-related Employment and Support Allowance (ESA)

● Working Tax Credit

The standard payment is calculated on whether you claim as a singleton or as a couple and if you are 25 or under.

Your circumstances:

Monthly standard allowance

Single and under 25 – £251.77

Single and 25 or over – £317.82

In a couple and you're both under 25 – £395.20 (for you both)

In a couple and either of you are 25 or over – £498.89 (for you both)

Additional payments may be given for if you have children; if you are disabled or care for a disabled person; to help with housing costs.

Mr Wilson said: "We're bracing ourselves, we just want to be ready."

"Over the last financial year we took in 14.5 tonnes of food and we gave out nearly 17."

The foodbank is concerned that although people know Universal Credit is coming, they may not realise the full extent of the change.

Mr Wilson emphasised that the foodbank was preparing for the worst case scenario, partly prompted by a huge increase in demand over the school holidays.

In August, Reach gave out 80 boxes which served 148 people, 44 of whom were children. Comparatively in July, 53 boxes were handed out serving 95 people, 25 of whom were children.

Mr Wilson said: "We don't normally see a massive spike in the summer holidays. We had about 400kg go out in August."

The increase has been attributed to the lack of free school meals over the summer holiday.

Mr Wilson added: "The holidays mean children don't get free school meals, so the cost of living goes up over the summer for parents."

"All we ask is that people drop an extra can or packet in the donation point when they're at Tesco."

"We get exceptional support from local businesses and the community and we want that to continue."

The foodbank is specifically looking for everyday items including soup cans, breakfast cereal, long life milk, jam, fruit juice and coffee.

You can donate at Tesco, Sainsbury's, Next Door Café in Haverhill, the Reach Resource Centre in Haverhill; Co-op in Market Street, Clare and the Co-op, in Swan Street, Sible Hedingham.

PARKING

CRYING FOWL: Paul Nash was hit with £100 charge while he and his children were eating at KFC and parked in their carpark. Picture: Warren Gunn

Man fined for taking too long to eat his KFC

A MAN from Haverhill has been slapped with a £100 fine for taking too long to eat a KFC in the restaurant's car park.

Paul Nash, 46, dropped into the Haverhill Leisure Centre branch for some fried chicken with his family when he was caught out by the centre's 45-minute parking restriction.

The test engineer had been going to the fast-food giant with his partner and children, five and 10, a few times a month but now says he will never eat a KFC again.

He said: "I will be using anybody else, just not KFC, ever, in any of their branches because of their corporate attitude of 'it's not our problem'."

Paul says he and his partner are "furious" at KFC because he claims its customer care team have not taken their concerns seriously.

He said: "Forty-five minutes is not a reasonable amount of time in which to get served and eat a meal."

"KFC were busy that day and short-staffed, so we waited in the queue, ordered food, ate and we had our two youngsters. They don't rush their food, particularly when you are in a hurry. They wanted ice-cream so we ordered ice-cream afterwards and then we left.

ANNA SAVVA

"We didn't think anymore of it until a few days later and I got a £100 fine in from the parking monitoring service."

"Something like that needs a massive sign. There is no-one there warning you, and it's hard to see any signs when you are running after youngsters, trying to make sure they don't run out and get flattened by a car coming through the drive-thru."

Now, after several weeks of trying to appeal the decision with the parking monitoring company Civil Enforcement, he is taking matters into his own hands, and will be making a visit to the branch to speak to the manager.

He added: "Customer care told me to take it up with the parking company, well I'm trying to get through to KFC head office that 45 minutes is not a reasonable time to set."

Paul claims he is not the only one to have raised concerns about the Haverhill branch's parking restrictions and doesn't want another family being caught out.

"I don't want it to keep happening to somebody else," he said. "So now I need to go to the branch to argue and hope the manager or someone else is there."

"I will need to find somewhere else to park though, because I don't want to risk another fine."

A spokesman from KFC said that it is not responsible for parking charges.

He said: "Time restrictions on parking are there for the benefit of our customers, so there's space available for them to park while eating."

"While we can understand the frustration, we don't run the car park at our Haverhill restaurant, and were not able to waive the parking fine."

Despite several attempts to contact Civil Enforcement, the company was unavailable for comment.

Bad parking damages paths

A READER'S letter was recently printed in your newspaper highlighted the distress caused to pavements, specifically on Downs Crescent.

If you were to walk on Downs Crescent any day of the week and, especially in the evening you will see many cars, trucks and vans parked half on the road and half on the pavement. The pavements were not designed or installed to be driven and parked on, so it is in fact no wonder they have suffered so badly in such a short space of time.

It is the residents of Downs Crescent that need to take a look in the mirror and use their garages and driveways rather than dumping their vehicles on the pavement. This selfish and irresponsible behaviour is not only a danger to the pedestrians, especially those with special needs, but to put it bluntly, the residents are cutting off their own nose to spite their face. Claiming that the council is not doing enough to repair the damage done again is just another example of a failure to take responsibility for protecting what could easily be a very nice part of Haverhill to live in.

Successful trip to twin town

A VERY big thank you to the Committee and Haverhill Town Twinning Association for the very successful, recent trip to our wonderful twin town in France, Pont Saint Esprit.

On Monday, September 11, 16 members of the Haverhill and District Twin Towns Association left for a bumper packed trip to Pont Saint Esprit.

Four of the 16 members came from Haverhill; we travelled to London and then via the TGV to Avignon where our hosts met us, to take us on to PSE for a welcome party at the town council buildings with the mayor.

Monday evening was spent relaxing with hosts.

Tuesday – A wonderful day with our hosts; morning visit to Musee Du Desert, picnic by the River Gardon and a guided tour of Anduze for the afternoon.

Wednesday – Tour of Bagnols-Sur-Geze markets; wine tasting at Espace Rabelais. Afternoon visit to Venejan Mon Village. Then on to Cellier Venejan to see the grapes arrive, dispatched and into the press.

Interesting information about white, rose, red and also writing on the top of the bottle. Then in for wine tasting. A wonderful and interesting day.

Thursday – morning visit to Aigues-Mortes (Saint Louis's city); lunch for all at Casablanca Tora Luna. Quick trip to Le Grau-Du-Roi for a paddle; back for party; with speeches, toasts, award, entertainment, disco with food and lots of dancing.

Friday – An interesting morning with hosts and friends; Musee Leon-Alegre and Musee Albert-Andre. Many superb paintings (works of art) by famous artists' and all in one place. And . . . an evening viewing the renovations at Prieure Saint-Pierre; Musee d'art sacre du Gurd, Gloria Reservoir, tour of Pont Saint Esprit, followed by party (picnic).

Saturday – The Provençal market at Pont Saint Esprit attracts thousands of people throughout the year; a must visit if your in the area. Beer at Hotel de la Bourse, lunch at Chez Vero (recommend) then sad goodbyes to our new friends and old ones after a wonderful visit to our twin town. Merci beaucoup and au revoir.

This is of course my interpretation of events but we had a committee meeting last night and although we have a wonderful time each time we go – this one seemed to be one of the best ever.

During this visit, I have tried to link up with schools in the area and I am speaking with a lady from the council to see if I can make this happen. I think it would be good for the Haverhill & District Twin Towns Association to bring the partnership into schools, bringing younger people into the loop, even if this would be via pen pal friendship between the children of local school in Haverhill and in PSE.

I was interviewed (alongside others from Haverhill) by a French journalist (from their local paper) and spoke about the fantastic trip we had, and also the fact that they must have booked the weather for us (26 – 28).

I also made clear my views about the partnership that I would like to form with the schools in both areas.

As chairman of the Haverhill & District Town Twinning Association, I would like to thank the committee (home and away) for the organisation of the trip, The Haverhill Town Council, Kedington Parish Council and Kedington Community Association for their continued support.

French choir to pay a visit

THERE is an important additional event to the Society's usual calendar which is the result of a visit last year to Pont Saint Esprit when we were invited by a local choir, Les Voix de Si de La, to present a joint concert with them in their local church.

This year we are returning the invitation and the French choir will be singing with us on Saturday, October 7, at 7.30pm at Haverhill's Old Independent Church. Our visitors will be hosted by members of Haverhill Choral Society and a welcoming reception will be held at The Plough Inn, Hundon, on Friday, October 6.

The choirs will join forces on the Saturday afternoon for a rehearsal in preparation for the evening concert.

Each choir will present its own programme which will include popular songs and light classical pieces and then join in presenting a grand finale, when the choirs

ANOTHER new busway could save commuters from Haverhill to Cambridge 130 hours of journey time every year, it has been claimed.

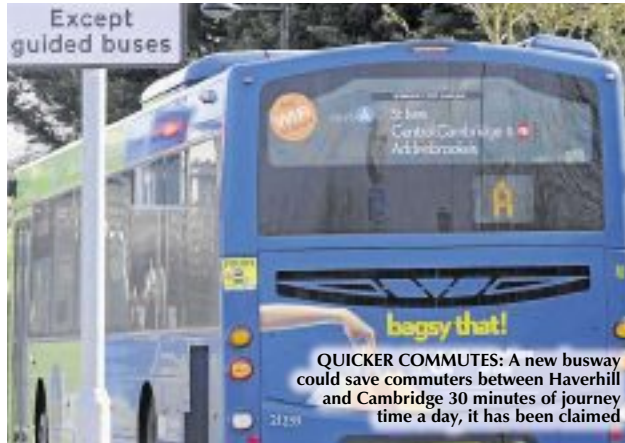

The claim was made at a local liaison forum meeting for the A1307, where residents, councillors and transport bosses discussed ways to improve the reliability and regularity of bus journeys in the area.

Adrian Haynes, of construction group WSP, said that, currently, the quick bus service from Haverhill to Addenbrooke's took about 45 minutes. He said the objective was to get journey time down to 30 to 35 minutes.

For commuters using the bus twice a day to go between Cambridge and Haverhill, a 15-minute saving twice a day equates to two-and-a-half hours a week. That's a saving of 130 hours a year.

Mr Haynes said it was not only the speed that affected whether or not people used a service, but also the reliability.

He said: "Reliable journey times provide a positive change.

"These strategies are looking to provide that reliability while also improving journey times. I'm trying to emphasise that the key focus is on journey time, but we're also looking at reliability. It makes a big difference to bus operators with their ability to run and grow services."

Three different "strategies" for improving the A1307 will be presented to the Greater Cambridge Partnership (former City Deal) executive board in November, where they will discuss putting them out to public consultation.

Strategy one would see the creation of a new 8km busway route via Sawston and Stapleford.

At the A505 junction with the A11 up to, 2,000 parking spaces would be provided for the park and ride service. Along the route, the bus would stop at hubs close to existing settlements (i.e. Sawston and Stapleford), where cycle parking would be provided. In addition to the park and ride site, a "rural hub" would be created at Linton, to provide car parking provision for users of the existing Haverhill to Cambridge bus service.

Strategy two would see the creation of a new bus-only road link from Babraham Road Park and Ride to Cambridge Biomedical Campus (CBC) with a cycleway running alongside.

At the A11 junction, up to 2,000 parking spaces would be provided for the park and ride service. The new park and ride site would be served by a new bus service to central Cambridge via CBC.

In addition to the park and ride site, a "rural hub" would be created at Linton, to provide car parking provision for users of the existing Haverhill to Cambridge bus service.

On-highway bus lanes would be provided to give priority to buses westbound to Hinton Way and from Bartlow Road to B1052 south of Linton. Eastbound bus lanes would also be provided on the approach to the A11 junction and on approach to Linton Village College.

Strategy three would see up to 2,000 parking spaces provided for the park and ride service at the A11 junction.

On-highway bus lanes would be provided to give priority to buses westbound to Addenbrooke's and from Bartlow Road to B1052 south of Linton. Eastbound bus lanes would also be provided at on approach to A11 junction and on approach to Linton Village College.

GCP transport director Chris Tunstall said that the LLF needed to think of the future, and said that segregated busways could be converted into tramlines or light railways in the future, replacing the bus option.

"We are looking at 2031," said Mr Tunstall. "There is more capacity for converting what is now seen as bus into light rail. There's greater scope for this on this route."

FORCE

Increase in complaints against Cambs police

@TaraCoxCN

THE number of allegations against Cambridgeshire police has risen by more than 150 in a single year – and the overall number of complaints is also on the increase.

The figures have been revealed in the latest Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) report, which presents figures on complaints and allegations recorded against the police in England and Wales during 2016/17.

These complaints, made by members of the public, relate to the conduct of people serving with the police, or under the direction and control of a police force. There can be a number of allegations within any single complaint.

The report says the force had 367 complaints in 2015/2016, with 90 per cent recorded by officers within 10 working days. This rose to 383 complaints in 2016/2017, with 91 per cent recorded by officers within 10 working days.

The number of allegations dealt with by police rose considerably, from 751 in 2015/2016 to 909 in 2016/2017.

Of the allegations recorded in 2016/2017, 197 were dealt with by an investigation, 42 were withdrawn, 20 were dealt with 'by disapplication', four were discontinued and 536 were dealt with by local resolution.

In response to the report, Detective Superintendent Amanda Bell, head of the Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire Professional Standards Department (PSD), said: "It is always disappointing when somebody is unhappy with the service they have received or how they feel they have been treated by a police officer or a member of staff.

"We take complaints very seriously and will always listen to and take heed of those who come forward to report any dissatisfaction or wrongdoing.

"While there has been an increase in the number of complaints received by Cambridgeshire police, it is encouraging to know that members of the public feel confident in reporting concerns to us. We want the public and our own employees to feel confident about raising concerns about the conduct of our officers and staff.

"We will always ensure that complaints are considered in line with the current complaint system and comply with the guidance from the Independent Police Complaints Commission to ensure our recording regime is open and transparent.

"Where necessary and appropriate, officers and staff will be held to account. It is also very important that both individuals and the force learn from any mistakes.

"Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) are content with our recording of public complaints and have praised the integrity with which this is conducted. They were also pleased and content with the proportion of complaints that we seek to deal with by means of local resolution."

Overall, police forces across the country recorded a total of 34,103 complaint cases in 2016/17 – a number similar to 2015/16. In 2016/17, the number of allegations nationwide recorded fell by one per cent – with a total of 63,752 allegations recorded.

Statistical bulletins from the IPCC are released four times a year for every police force.

ROADS

Motorcyclist hurt in A1307 crash

A MALE motorcyclist has been taken to Addenbrooke's following a crash on the A1307 near Haverhill.

The single vehicle incident occurred at around 4.45pm on Sunday at the Withersfield roundabout.

Police officers closed the whole road and diverted traffic while emergency services attended the scene.

The East of England Ambulance service and an Essex Air Ambulance helicopter were called to treat the rider as his injuries were initially believed to be serious.

But a spokesman from Suffolk Police said: "We've been told it's not serious or life threatening but he was taken to hospital".

On Twitter Haverhill Police officers advised motorists to use the nearby bypass to avoid the area.

The police spokesman said during the incident: "We've still got a number of units sorting out recovery. The road is still closed, we're just finalising things and then it will be opened."

CORRIE MCKEAGUE

Following Corrie's last-known steps

THE mother of Corrie McKeague on Sunday retraced the last-known steps of her son one year on from the night he went missing.

The 23-year-old airman disappeared on September 24 last year after a night out with friends in Bury St Edmunds.

Supported by Corrie's brothers, Makeyan and Darroch, mum Nicola Urquhart walked her son's final route through the town and recounted the details of his final movements.

Dozens of friends and supporters joined her on the emotional journey as she made a plea for people with any new information to come forward.

Nicola said that the idea for the walkabout was agreed upon three weeks ago when the family decided to mark the anniversary of Corrie's disappearance with a "proactive" event.

"I hope it will bring information out," she said. "That's been the whole purpose of this."

"To hear people saying 'I didn't realise that', to know that people's attention is focused on the facts of that night – hopefully that will bring forward information."

TOM PILGRIM
@TomPilgrimCN

For over an hour Nicola walked through town, explained Corrie's activities the night he went missing and answered questions from members of the public.

Many supporters shared words of encouragement and embraced Corrie's mother, while others brought gifts for the family.

Paul and Julie Stammers, whose son is an ex-serviceman, travelled up from their home in Kent to show their support for Corrie's family.

Mother-of-two Rebecca Watts, from Burwell, also followed Nicola through the streets of Bury St Edmunds.

"I've got two boys so it really resonates with me," she said. "Someone knows where he is. It's really a case of reminding people that he's missing."

The crowd of supporters were taken from the Flex nightclub on St Andrews Street South, where Corrie was separated from his friends, and past Pizza Mamma Mia in St Andrews Street North where he bought takeaway food.

The airman was then caught on CCTV walking on to Brentgovel Street near The Grapes Pub, eating his food, before he took a nap for about two hours in the doorway of Hughes Electrical Store nearby.

Corrie walked past the junction of St Johns Street to a refuse collection area behind Greggs, known as the horseshoe area.

Corrie's brother Makeyan, said he was "extremely grateful" to all the people who had shown support to his family over the past year.

"These people – we need them," he said. "Their support keeps things moving."

"The main goal is to try and get it, but I'm so glad we've done it.

"We wanted to do something positive. It's about doing something proactive."

Since Corrie's disappearance, girlfriend April Oliver has given birth to his daughter Ellie-Louise.

Nicola said her granddaughter's arrival had given the family "a future to look forward to".

"She's part of Corrie," she explained. "We can see Corrie in her. It's given us a future that still includes Corrie. Something has happened to Corrie, we just need to find out what happened. We're still desperately looking for information. It's about making people know the facts."

"He's somewhere and I can't see how we're not going to get that final link at some point."

"I won't stop trying until we do."

Haverhill Property Update

Cheffins

Haverhill – a hotspot for first time buyers?

Ryan Bourgaize, Associate, Cheffins comments:

In the past 18 months, at least a third of our property sales have been to first time buyers. Drawn in by more affordable prices, high quality new build homes and its proximity to Cambridge, first time buyers are continuing to come to Haverhill in their droves and now make up a significant percentage of households in the town. According to the latest Halifax First Time Buyer Review, the average price paid by a first time buyer was £207,693 in June. Bearing in mind in Haverhill around £200,000 could buy a smart two bedroom property with garage or smaller three bedroom house, the town now presents a viable option in comparison to other more expensive parts of the region.

The majority these purchasers are from the local area, however we are also seeing an increase in first time buyers from further afield who have located to the area for work. Cambridge continues to employ a raft of young professionals, many of whom can't afford to live in the city and realise that a short drive out of town to Haverhill can allow for a larger property than other locations closer to the city.

Lifestyle has also helped to draw younger buyers to Haverhill. Our town has a fantastically friendly community with a series of sports and social clubs. There is also a growing bar and restaurant scene with the opening of the likes of Nine Jars in recent months along with the established chain restaurant, Prezzo. The leisure centre provides a state of the art gym and cinema complex and the pretty surrounding countryside is perfect for those looking to make the most of the outdoors and the nearby village pubs.

As a series of new developments continue to spring up and around the town, we forecast that a large portion of our market will continue to be made up of first time buyers over the following months. Anyone looking to purchase their first home should give us a call at Cheffins and we would be more than happy to help advise how to get onto the property ladder.

Do eyes and stomach hold key in Alzheimer's battle?

PIONEERING dementia scientists in Cambridgeshire are to research whether the eyes and the stomach could hold secrets behind finding new treatments for Alzheimer's.

It has been announced £1.75 million has been given to Alzheimer's Research UK to investigate new ways to diagnose, treat and reduce the risk of the condition.

Among a number of projects, the money will be used to look at whether early signs are found in the eyes and if a protein involved in dementia could originate in the gut.

Alzheimer's disease is the most common cause of dementia, affecting 500,000 people in the UK.

The Cambridgeshire-based charity has funded more than £16 million of research in Cambridge since it was founded 25 years ago.

The £1.75 million of new funding will help improve understanding of dementia and drive progress towards ways to diagnose, treat and reduce the risk of the condition.

The funding comes after the News shared the heartbreaking story of Becky Barletta, a 32-year-old ski instructor who was diagnosed with dementia in the 'youngest case a doctor had ever seen'.

New projects awarded funding include:

- Nearly £800,000 for investigating whether internet counselling and other web-based support could help people make lifestyle changes to reduce their dementia risk.

- £100,000 for a study that will measure the magnetic signature of the brain to identify the early signs of Alzheimer's disease.

- A £419,456 study using brain scans to find the brain changes that underlie visual hallucinations in dementia with Lewy Bodies.

- Nearly £50,000 for a project that aims to identify early signs of Alzheimer's through the eye.

- More than £18,000 for sensitive new equipment to measure protein changes involved in different forms of dementia.

- Nearly £30,000 to test the idea that a protein involved in dementia could originate in the gut.

Prof Michael Coleman from Cambridge University secured a grant of nearly £50,000 for research to understand the links between brain injury and dementia.

We aim to identify the earliest changes that take place in the brain following a traumatic brain injury to see if we could stop them triggering subsequent changes that could lead to dementia

Prof Coleman, who ran in the Chariots of Fire event in Cambridge this month to raise money for Alzheimer's Research UK, said: "From traffic accidents to collision sports, millions of people around the world experience head injuries every year.

"While these events can result in immediate damage to the brain, evidence suggests they could also have significant effects in the longer-term.

Recent research has pointed towards traumatic brain injury as a probable risk factor for dementia in later life.

"While studies have shed light on higher rates of dementia in people who sustain these injuries, we don't fully understand how these events set dementia-causing processes in motion.

"We aim to identify the earliest changes that take place in the brain following a traumatic brain injury, to see if we could stop them from triggering subsequent changes that could lead on to dementia.

"We are very grateful to Alzheimer's Research UK for this funding and we hope to shed new light on this important link."

Dr Rosa Sancho, head of research at Alzheimer's Research UK, said Cambridge is a leading centre for dementia research and the range of projects the charity is funding in the city reflects the breadth of expertise scientists are bringing to bear to tackle diseases like Alzheimer's.

She said: "We are very pleased to be supporting the innovative research of scientists like Prof Coleman and his team. By unravelling an important risk factor for dementia, his research could help shed new light on the condition and identify new opportunities to help people at risk.

"Dementia isn't a normal part of ageing but the result of physical changes to the brain caused by diseases such as Alzheimer's.

SUSAN LEE finds fun and fantasy are not the only things on the menu at Walt Disney World in Florida

The Beast welcomes you to his castle as Disney works its magic to make meals into fairytale spectacles

T must have been the spoon full of sugar I'd put in my tea because when I looked up I was taking breakfast with Mary Poppins.

But then I was in Walt Disney World in Florida, a place where dreams come true. Judging by the look on the faces of my fellow diners as we tucked into our meal alongside Winnie the Pooh, Donald Duck and Miss Poppins, I'd say objective achieved.

That morning at the Cape May Cafe in Disney's Beach Club Resort set the standard, in terms of food and fun, for what was to come over the next few days.

I'd been to Disney before but this time I was there to find out more about the dining offer across the parks and hotels.

To be honest, I'd heard about the Disney Dining Plan but never really understood it. After all, there are loads of places to eat on every park so why bother worrying about it before you go?

Part of the answer came later that day in the Magic Kingdom where, after a morning riding 'The Seven Dwarves Mine Train, battling the ghosts in the Haunted Mansion and taking endless pictures outside the iconic castle, it was time for lunch at Be Our Guest.

We're in Beauty and the Beast territory here with the restaurant designed to recreate the Beast's castle. It's jaw-droppingly good and the food simple and plentiful. It's quick service at lunch but incredibly popular so, if you want your prince or princess to experience it, best book as soon as reservations are open - 180 days before your holiday starts.

No visit to the Magic Kingdom would be complete without witnessing its night-time show of fireworks and projections played out against the backdrop of the castle.

Happily Ever After is new this year, an interweaving of stories, clips and music. It's also lump-in-throat good.

Being a journalist I asked how much the fireworks cost. I was told, in true Disney style, you can't put a price on happiness.

Neither can you put a price on a great lunch after a hard morning enjoying yourself Soarin' Around the World at Epcot.

It's a well-established ride that's had an impressive reboot, a multi-passenger flight simulator which takes you on a thrilling aerial tour of the globe.

Back on firm ground, our party stopped off in Japan for something to eat in the guise of Teppan Edo. Here, food was prepared traditionally just inches away from diners on a tableside grill, our chef bringing drama and excitement courtesy of some sharp knives and sharper banter.

I'm not hugely familiar with Japanese food but this was spectacular. Little wonder some of the best Japanese chefs in the world work here but, again, demand is high and it's worth checking out the menu in advance to know what you're spending - another advantage to being on the Disney Dining plan.

I'm not a big fan of big drops on rides, so what possessed me to go

NEED TO KNOW

■ A 14-night stay at Disney's Grand Floridian Resort & Spa, including 14-Day Ultimate park tickets with free Memory Maker and free Dining Plan, starts from £2,096 per adult on the basis of two adults and two children (aged 9 and under) sharing a garden view room.

■ ALL prices are based on value season (September 6 - December 20, 2018) and include the Attraction Tickets Direct special launch offer of up to £100 discount per booking. ATD is now selling hotel, ticket and dining packages to Walt Disney World in Florida.

■ The offer is valid on all 2017 and 2018 hotel and ticket package bookings. The discount amount will vary according to the hotel resort category.

■ To book your trip or for more information visit attraction-tickets-direct.co.uk on the Twilight Zone Tower of Terror at Disney's Hollywood Studios I'll never know.

It's 60m high. It's in the dark. And you drop like a stone – again and again. As memories go, it's one I'll take with me to my grave which, at one point, I thought might come sooner rather than later.

My stomach had settled just enough to enjoy dinner that evening at The Hollywood Brown Derby, a place awash with classic movie decor and serving staff who knew the menu inside out and were happy to chop and change dishes on request.

If the hurly-burly of the parks gets too much I'd recommend a day at Typhoon Lagoon. The water park boasts some serious thrill rides – the new Miss Adventure Falls isn't to be missed – but bobbing around on the Lazy River ticked all the boxes for me.

Plus, you can hire a private cabana, which comes complete with a service attendant who will deliver drinks and food to your personal piece of shade.

If shopping is your thing check out Disney Springs. The massive outdoor complex combines retail heaven with great bars, restaurants and entertainment.

DISNEY DINING PLAN OFFER

YOU can take advantage of the Disney Dining Plan for free if you opt for a Disney Moderate, Deluxe, or Deluxe Villa Resort Hotel and Ticket package for a minimum of five nights, if you book before November 6, 2017.

The usual cost is £699 per person based on a two-week stay. The plan offers the opportunity to budget for meals at up to 100 different dining venues.

Your meal entitlements are loaded onto your Magic Band which you then touch at a Magic Point when making a purchase.

We tried The Boathouse, a waterfront steak and seafood place with great wines (make sure you take ID) and a great atmosphere.

All the eateries here come under the Disney Dining Plan so it's straightforward enough to book where and when you want to eat while keeping abreast of your 'credits' – that's the system used in the plan to help you keep track as each eatery attracts a certain number of credits depending on what it offers.

You can 'save' credits too – so if you fancy a top end restaurant one night you can save them up day to day. Just adjust your dining choice accordingly.

Ideal for budgeting your holiday money in advance.

This year has seen a number of new rides and experiences introduced across Disney, but none more eagerly anticipated than Pandora – The World of Avatar.

A brand new 'land' created within the Animal Kingdom, the centre-piece is Flight of Passage, an augmented reality flight simulator.

This is as thrilling an experience as you'll get at Disney, soaring over oceans, across plains and mountains and through forests.

It is utterly beautiful and, for my money, now the gold standard in theme park rides.

Earlier, we'd eaten at Boma – Flavours of Africa at the Animal Kingdom Lodge

Disney hotels have excellent food options from buffet service to high end dining. Indeed, I'll forever be grateful to the waitress at The Grand Floridian, my base for this trip, who recommended the halibut with clams – it sorted my jet-lag out nicely.

Boma, though, was one of my favourites and made for a varied and interesting breakfast. Satu'lil Canteen meanwhile in The World of Avatar offered quick, efficient service and some great salads – perfect to load up on ahead of the park's new after dark entertainment, Rivers of Light.

The show combines live performance, floating set pieces, music and water. It was the perfect end to a trip which had made me wiser about the Dining Plan and the diversity and value it offers as well as reminding me just how special a Disney holiday can be.

Mind you, I was also returning slightly heavier than when I left thanks to the fantastic food I'd tried.

Time to cut out that spoonful of sugar. Sorry Mary.

'Lack of evidence to back children's centres plans'

TARA COX
@TaraCoxCN

THERE is a 'lack of clear evidence' to support proposals to scrap 19 dedicated children's centres across Cambridgeshire in a bid to save £1 million, according to Cambridge City Council.

The city council has formally responded to a public consultation on Cambridgeshire County Council's proposed review of children's centre services, which includes the potential closure of four centres in Cambridge.

A public consultation has been undertaken regarding plans to "redesign" children's services in a bid to help reach more families across the county.

Currently there are 40 designated children's centres across the county delivered by the county council, schools and voluntary organisations.

Cllr Richard Johnson, the city's executive councillor for communities, has sent a letter to the county after listening to the views of local people, which outlines the city council's formal response to proposals. The letter stresses the council's views that:

- Children's centres play an important role in ensuring families and children in Cambridge can thrive and have the best start

dren in Cambridge can thrive and have the best start

- There is a lack of clear evidence in the consultation paper to support the rationale for the proposals

- The impact of the proposals on communities, groups and areas of Cambridge, in particular those with high needs, is not clear

- More detail is required on how crucial services would be provided following any proposed changes – changes that may include the closure of children's centres – before final decisions are made.

Cllr Johnson said: "I acknowledge the financial pressure that Cambridgeshire County Council, like all local authorities, is under due to reductions in central grant funding from Government.

"Nevertheless, it is paramount the needs of families and children are met in the city.

"Given the lack of a clear and robust evidence base to justify the proposals, the public may conclude that the suggested closure of centres, and absence of information as to how services will be provided if those centres close, will ultimately have a negative impact on those families and children who currently use them.

"As a result, more information should be made available to decision makers before a final judgement is made by councillors on these proposals – to either accept, amend or reject them completely."

A petition launched calling for a full council debate on the issue has now gathered more than 3,000 signatures – the number needed to trigger the debate.

In response to the city council's claims, a Cambridgeshire County Council spokesman said: "Our proposals are about making sure every child thrives in Cambridgeshire. We want people to access services where they live when they need them most and our plans will create a flexible approach, which prioritises services over buildings.

"Our flexible approach will involve a range of services including family and child centres, zones, outreach activities supported by an effective online offer and this will help us meet the challenge of providing adaptable services for a growing county.

"All consultation feedback will be carefully considered and put into a report that will be discussed by the Children and Young People Committee in October."

Under the proposals:

THERE are 40 designated children's centres delivered by the county council, schools and voluntary organisations.

The plans to "change the use or re-designate" 19 children's centre buildings across Cambridgeshire to provide additional early years provision.

Council chiefs instead hope to create a network of 10 'Children and Family Centres' over 15 sites across the five districts – Cambridge City, South Cambs, East Cambs, Huntingdonshire and Fenland.

A council agenda document reads: "We are proposing that some children's centres would no longer be needed as children's centres.

"We would look to re-designate these spaces to meet other needs of families in the area including childcare provision, community use and wherever possible ongoing pop-up provision.

Children's centres in East Cambridgeshire that could be 're-designated' include Sutton and Bottisham.

In Cambridge it includes Romsey Mill, Fawcett, Homerton and Cherry Hinton.

Live music and all that jazz

TO celebrate the fact that we are bursting at the seams with great guitar music this autumn, we have introduced a guitar season ticket called The Fretboard Five.

For an absolute steal of only £40 you can see: Thomas Leeb; State of the Union with Boo Hewerdine and Brooks Williams; Clive Carroll; Guy Davis and Fabrizio Poggi and The Oxley-Meier Guitar Project. The first two of The Fretboard Five are Thomas Leeb (Sunday, October 1) and State of the Union on Thursday, October 5. Austrian Thomas's guitar style was honed by three years studying West African traditional music. This gave him an unusual sense of timing and groove which earned him a loyal world-wide following.

Combining the talents of English song-writing legend Boo Hewerdine (The Bible) and acclaimed American Blues guitarist and songwriter Brooks Williams, State of the Union will be a magical, stripped back performance with new and original songs with influences ranging from Willie Nelson to Johnny Cash and the wide open Fenlands to the buzz of the city. Fretboard Five tickets can be purchased via the Box Office on (01440) 714140 or haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

Georgia Mancio is the special guest of Hannah Horton and The All That Jazz Club on Saturday. Georgia is an award-winning jazz vocalist whose credits include working with Bobby McFerrin and Ian Shaw and has received such plaudits as 'technical mastery, expressive range and a remarkable versatility' from The Observer and "a sublime vocalist with both credibility and talent to spare" Jazzwise. Hear Georgia's talents at 8pm

Following on from the recent performance from The Royal Opera House of the Magic Flute, we are pleased to now broadcast their version of La Boheme. In Puccini's passionate opera, a bunch of penniless Bohemians in 19th-century Paris are about to celebrate Christmas when one of the gang falls head over hills in love with a neighbour who has come to their door in search of a light for her candle. Love doesn't run smooth, particularly when the spectre of tuberculosis looms large.

We are pleased to welcome back the talented dancers from the Lisa Mason School of Dance on Saturday, October 7 and Sunday, October 8. In the show Happy Feet, their ninth annual stage show, they will showcase their moves in such styles as ballet, tap, modern, street dance. Some of the dancers are very young in the tooth, being just 3-years-old, and many will be back for this year's panto (Aladdin) in December.

The Limehouse Golem is our cinema offering this week; set in Victorian London, detective John Kildare (old favourite Bill Nighy) attempts to discover the perpetrator of a series of grisly murders that have more than a whiff of Jack the Ripper about them. # Big Mondeo price cuts are aimed at business drivers

FORD is slashing prices of the Mondeo and is reducing the number of trim levels available from seven to five.

As of November, the Mondeo will be available from £19,445 – a cut of £2,500.

Range topping Vignale models are being reduced by £3,000 and now start from £27,545.

Ford says that more than 85 per cent of Mondeos are driven by professionals as a company or lease car, meaning that they pay a "benefit in kind" tax based on the vehicle's on the road price.

To minimise tax liability, the OTR prices of the Mondeo are being reduced by £3,000 on Vignale, £2,500 on Zetec and ST-Line Editions and £2,000 on Titanium Edition.

The cuts translate into savings of up to £720 over three years on a Mondeo ST-Line Edition 2.0 TDCi 150ps, for a 40 per cent tax payer plus £300 on the employer's fleet National Insurance costs.

Lease monthly payments for the Titanium Edition 2.0 TDCi 150ps five door are maintained at £258 over three years.

All five models in the new Mondeo range have navigation with an eight-inch touchscreen, DAB radios, autonomous braking to mitigate or avoid low-speed collisions at under 31mph, front/rear parking sensors and cruise control with speed limiter as standard.

ST-Line models add extra front, rear and side body styling, lowered sports suspension, start button and darkened headliner.

Privacy glass and 19-inch alloys are added on the new ST-Line Edition grade.

Owen Gregory, Ford of Britain fleet director, said: "We know Mondeo customers want their cars to stand out."

"This has propelled Mondeo drivers from core series to distinctly sporty and luxury-looking models."

Mr Gregory said: "Making this easier and more affordable takes Mondeo into 2018 in style."

ROAD TEST

MINI Countryman Cooper SE ALL4

IT'S taken a while, but MINI has joined the hybrid party with its first-ever plug-in hybrid model.

With all the talk of phasing out of fossil fuels, the hybrid offers a powerful combination of performance and economy.

It features a lively 1.5-litre three cylinder engine mated with a powerful lithium-ion battery, itself with an impressive 88bhp to produce a combined 224bhp.

MINI says the car can be driven at speeds of up to 78mph with a range of 26 miles on battery power only.

This delivers a nominal 134mpg capability but only when driven under stringent conditions, but nearer 60mpg is still pretty efficient and that's a fair real world figure.

It is facilitated by the four-wheel drive system where the front wheels are powered by the petrol engine and the rear wheels by the electric motor.

This means the car can run on electricity alone not just in urban traffic, but for longer distances too, but drawing on the power of both drive forms when necessary.

The battery, which sits under the rear seats, can be charged in just over three hours via a household mains electricity socket or two and half hours by a bespoke wall charger unit.

Charging can also take place at the slowly growing number of parking/charging points throughout the UK. As ever, charging infrastructure remains an obstacle to electrically-powered vehicles.

Floor the pedal and the car can hit 62mph in 6.8 seconds while spitting out just 49g/km of CO<sub>2</sub>, lively performance and still environmentally friendly. Run on electric only and tailpipe emissions fall to zero.

There is no visible compromise with styling either, although boot space is more limited to accommodate the battery

factfile

Price: £31,585

Engine: 1,499cc petrol/electric

Transmission: 6-speed auto

Top speed: 123mph

0-62mph: 6.5 seconds

Economy: 134.4mpg combined

Emissions: 49g/km

and the car is heavier than non-hybrid versions.

Space is good, after all this is a maxi Mini. Four adults are seated in comfort with good headroom all round, while boot space of 405 litres opens up to 1,275 with the rear seats folded.

On the road are three drive modes, Auto eDRIVE, Max eDrive and SAVE BATTERY.

Auto allows purely electric driving up to 50mph, when the petrol engine is automatically kicked in when accelerating quickly or when the battery charge falls below seven per cent.

The max setting is purely electric driving up to 78mph, the engine is additionally enabled at higher speeds or on kickdown, while save battery, as the name implies, the car is powered by the petrol engine.

Auto mode is perhaps the best unless you are tootling about around town and can manage on electric power alone. But this also allows the combined power units, mated to the six-speed Steptronic gearchange to give the driver a really engaging driving experience with brisk acceleration and excellent handling.

The Countryman is the biggest MINI in the range and could easily be described as a multi-purpose crossover, while still maintaining the styling it is famed for.

Bigger, more efficient and not cheap, but the MINI magic still enthalls buyers.

Lack of pace means Paffett happy with fourth

GARY Paffett was satisfied with fourth place in the second race of the latest weekend of DTM action in Spielberg, Austria, as a lack of pace made finishing on the podium an unrealistic target.

The Haverhill-based Mercedes driver qualified in sixth place but dropped to seventh after a long stint where he needed to look after the tyres. After a safety car restart he overtook Marco Wittmann and Mattias Ekström and he gained another place in his Mercedes-AMG C63 when Jamie Green encountered a problem in his Audi.

"I'm pleased," said Paffett, 36. "The car felt good on the fresh set of tyres after the pitstop so I was happy. I crossed the line in fourth thanks to Green and his problem. That was really good. It's not ideal but it was the best-possible result given the pace we had this weekend."

The first race saw Paffett finish 17th after a difficult qualifying session left him too much to do in the race.

Sims' title hopes ended by shunt

ALEXANDER Sims suffered a disappointing weekend in the latest round of the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship as his hopes of claiming the drivers' title came to an end.

He and BMW Team RLL co-driver Bill Auberlen could only finish eighth in the GTLM class at the America's Tire 250 race at the Mazda Raceway, Laguna Seca, California.

The pair showed some strong pace in their No 25 BMW M6 GTLM but contact with a rival competitor on lap 57 put Auberlen into the gravel and left them two laps down halfway through the race.

Auberlen had been in third place in class at the time of the accident, underlining the potential they had for a strong result.

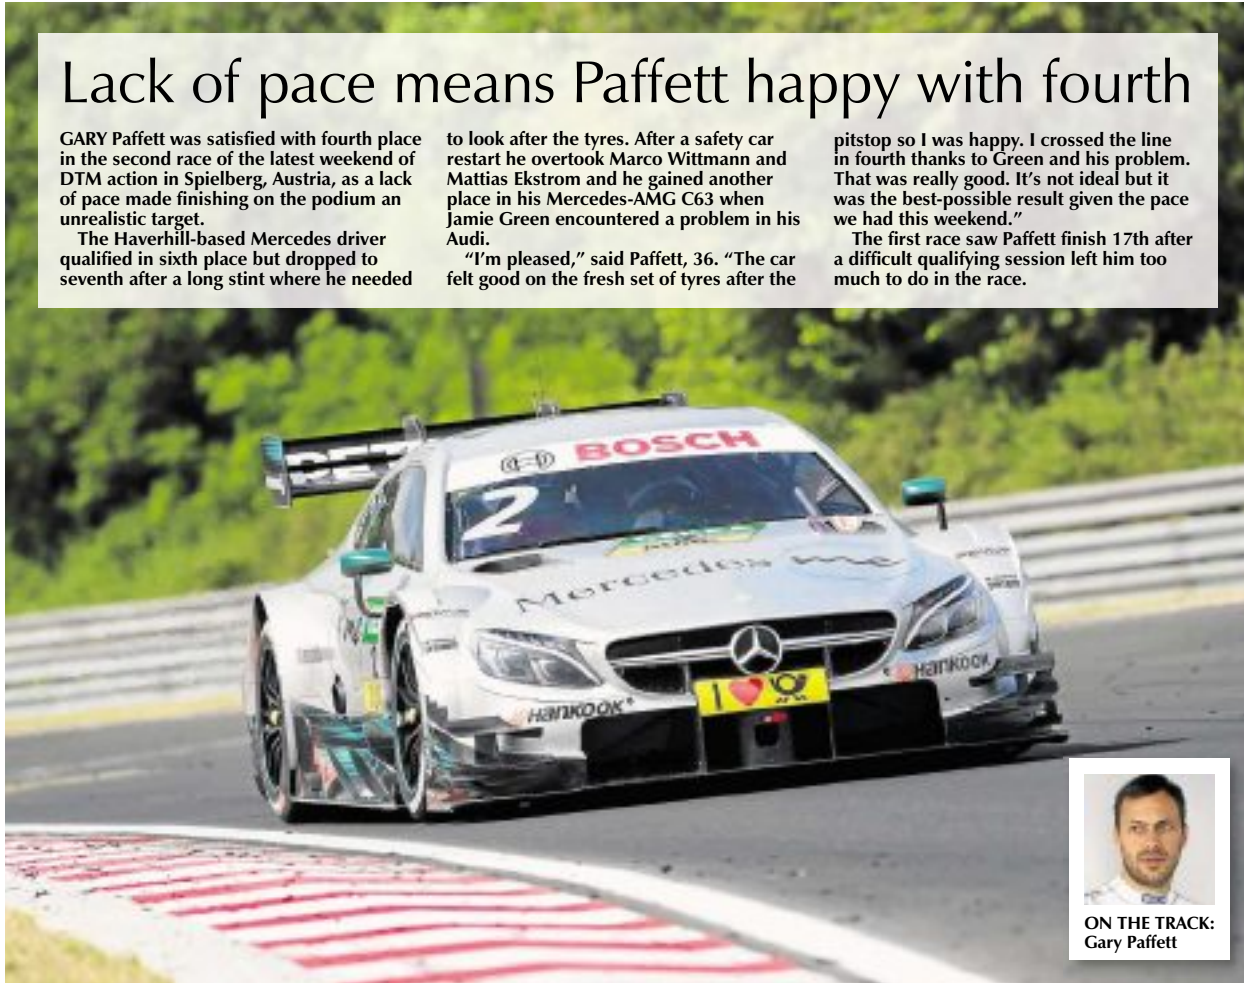

Sims, of West Wrating, took over driving duties for the final stint and recovered to finish eighth in class but the collision cost them vital points that ended their hopes of claiming the drivers' title.

"We were really hoping for something more out of this weekend because we showed such good pace throughout and definitely had the car to get a podium result," said Sims, who tasted victory at Watkins Glen and the Canadian Tire Motorsport Park.

"I've really got to thank the BMW Team RLL guys for putting us in such a good position."

He continued: "Unfortunately our race was effectively ended when another GTLM car hit us from behind. It's put us out of contention for the drivers' championship, which is extremely frustrating but these things happen."

Sims and Auberlen are now third in the overall standings heading into the season finale, the 10-hour Petit Le Mans race at Road Atlanta on October 7.

Rovers get much-needed win

HAVERHILL Rovers picked up their first win in six games with Tuesday's 2-0 victory over Ely City – thanks to a Jordan Palmer double.

The home side took the lead after just 93 seconds of the Thurlow Nunn League match, a glancing header from Palmer finding the bottom right corner.

On 39 minutes Palmer got his, and his side's, second of the evening, his volley coming down off the underside of the bar.

After the break Ely tried to peg

Haverhill back but the closest they came was in the 57th minute when Ollie Brookes had a free header 10 yards out but missed the target.

The game was effectively over when Ely were reduced to 10 men in the 86th minute, second-half substitute James Seymour receiving his second yellow card for a poor challenge on Ben Bradley.

Things had gone less well for Rovers on Saturday at Brantham Athletic as they paid the price for misfortune and mistakes at the back in the final 10 minutes.

Brantham took the lead after 10 minutes but Rovers hit back and equalised in the 35th minute with a header from Rafal Wozniak.

It remained 1-1 until the final 10 minutes when the game turned on two key moments within 60 seconds.

Also at the weekend, Haverhill Borough secured their third Premier Division win of the season and recorded their first clean sheet as they beat Fakenham Town 2-0. Borough started well and took the lead after just five minutes, Craig Pruden the scorer after good work by Robbie Alderman.

Ryan Weaver went close to extending the lead on three occasions, but it remained 1-0 at the break.

The hosts improved after the break but there were still further chances for Borough, through Ross Elkins and Matt Staines. And the second goal eventually arrived in the 71st minute as Weaver broke clear to fire home.
